CALL FOR SPEAKERS

Webinar "Climate Activism around the Globe"

As part of the program of the University Sustainability Days 2024, a webinar titled "Climate Activism around the Globe" will take place on Tuesday, 18 June, from 5-7 pm.

The webinar aims to provide a platform for climate activists and researchers from various regions of the world to present their work and the greatest climate challenges in their home countries. Additionally, it aims to create a space for exchange, discussion, and networking. Our current list of speakers includes a student enrolled at Earlham College, Indiana (USA) who is a founding member of the Japanese branch of Fridays for Future. Over the past few years, he has carried out research on the climate crisis from a decolonizing perspective and he would like to present some of his insights from this point of view.

The organizing team is currently seeking additional international students in Freiburg who would like to present their activist work or research related to sustainability/the climate crisis in their home country (preferably from a postcolonial/decolonizing perspective).

If you are interested or have additional questions, please send a mail to the Student Sustainability Office: nachhaltigkeitsbuero@zv.uni-freiburg.de. You can also visit them during their office hours (Wednesday, 2 - 4 pm) at Hebelstrasse 10, R02012.
